

Purpose

All Workers who, in good faith, make a complaint or are a witness to bullying or harassment are protected against victimisation.

This Standard applies to people carrying out work for KGL Resources (KGL), including as officers, employees, volunteers and contractors (Workers).

Bullying and Harassment Definitions

Bullying

Bullying occurs where a person repeatedly behaves unreasonably towards a Worker or group of Workers at work and the behaviour creates a risk to health and safety. Examples of workplace bullying include:

- failing to respond to requests for assistance, or unreasonable delays in responding to queries or concerns.

Bullying is not reasonable management action carried out in a reasonable manner.

Sexual Harassment

A person sexually harasses another person (the person harassed) if:

- the person makes an unwelcome sexual advance, or an unwelcome request for sexual favours, to the person harassed; or
- engages in other unwelcome conduct of a sexual nature in relation to the person harassed;
- in circumstances in which a reasonable person, having regard to all the circumstances, would have anticipated the possibility that the person harassed would be offended, humiliated or intimidated.

Examples of sexual harassment include innuendos or crude jokes (in person or by email/text), displaying or sharing offensive material in the workplace, and displays of sexual conduct.

In addition to obligations of Workers, Managers are expected to promote this Standard within their area of Responsibility and take steps to ensure that any breaches or potential breaches of this Standard or relevant laws are identified, taken seriously and acted upon appropriately and in a timely manner.

Appropriate Action

Any Worker found to have engaged in bullying or harassment behaviour may be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination of their employment without notice or ending of their engagement with KGL. The appropriate action will be determined on the particular circumstances.

In the event that a breach of this Standard constitutes a breach of any laws or regulations, KGL may report the breach or enforce the relevant legal right or entitlement, whether on its own behalf or on behalf of a KGL Worker (to the full extent permitted by law).
